CCA kicked off the 2011-2012 school year with a student-led outreach to help out a single mother of newborn twins.

Inspiration came as high school drama teacher Mrs. Baldwin shared with her class how God had miraculously provided some very needful baby supplies for her friend, Shana, who was starting over after leaving an abusive relationship. God nudged the hearts of these high school students to help Shana even more. They came up with the Diaper Drive idea with a goal of collecting 500 diapers, and for fun, added a little competition to see which class could bring in the most diapers.

The result was manifold: over 600 diapers were collected, CCA students learned how their actions can bless someone in need, and God brought about an even larger blessing to this new mom and her babies to help them through this emotionally and financially difficult time.
